MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

Adopted: July 21, 2009

Released: July 21, 2009

By the Acting Chief, Media Bureau:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Allegiance Communications, LLC (“Allegiance” or “Petitioner”) has filed with the Chief of the Media Bureau requests for waiver (the “Waiver Request”) of the ban on integrated set-top boxes set forth in Section 76.1204(a)(1) of the Commission’s rules.<sup>1</sup> For the reasons stated below, we grant the waiver requested by Allegiance until July 1, 2010, conditioned as set forth below.

II. BACKGROUND

A. Section 629 of the Act

2. Congress directed the Commission to adopt regulations to assure the commercial availability of navigation devices more than ten years ago as part of the Telecommunications Act of 1996.<sup>2</sup> The Commission implemented this directive in 1998 through the adoption of the “integration ban,” which established a date after which cable operators no longer may place into service new navigation devices (e.g., set-top boxes) that perform both conditional access and other functions in a single integrated device.<sup>3</sup> Originally, the Commission established January 1, 2005 as the deadline for compliance with the integration ban.<sup>4</sup> On two occasions, the National Cable and Telecommunications Association (“NCTA”), on behalf of all cable operators, sought – and obtained – extensions of that deadline.<sup>5</sup> The Commission ultimately fixed July 1, 2007 as the deadline in order to afford cable operators additional time to determine the feasibility of developing a downloadable security function that would permit compliance with the Commission’s rules without incurring the cable operator and consumer costs associated with the separation of hardware.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>2</sup> See Section 629(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. § 549(a) (requiring the FCC “to adopt regulations to assure the commercial availability, to consumers of multichannel video programming and other services offered over multichannel video programming systems, of converter boxes, interactive communications equipment, and other equipment used by consumers to access multichannel video programming and other services offered over multichannel video programming systems, from manufacturers, retailers, and other vendors not affiliated with any multichannel video programming distributor”); see also Telecommunications Act of 1996, Pub. L. No. 104-104, § 304, 110 Stat. 56, 125-126 (1996).

3. The purpose of the integration ban is to assure reliance by both cable operators and consumer electronics manufacturers on a common separated security solution.<sup>7</sup> This “common reliance” is necessary to achieve the broader goal of Section 629 – i.e., to allow consumers the option of purchasing navigation devices from sources other than their MVPD.<sup>8</sup> Although the cable industry has challenged the lawfulness of the integration ban on three separate occasions, in each of those cases the D.C. Circuit denied those petitions.<sup>9</sup> In limited circumstances, however, operators may be eligible for waiver of the integration ban.<sup>10</sup>

<sup>3</sup> See Implementation of Section 304 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996: Commercial Availability of Navigation Devices, 13 FCC Rcd 14775, 14803, ¶ 69 (1998) (“First Report and Order”) (adopting Section 76.1204 of the Commission’s rules, subsection (a)(1) of which (1) required multichannel video programming distributors (“MVPDs”) to make available by July 1, 2000 a security element separate from the basic navigation device (i.e., the CableCARD), and, in its original form, (2) prohibited MVPDs covered by this subsection from “plac[ing] in service new navigation devices ... that perform both conditional access and other functions in a single integrated device” after January 1, 2005); see also 47 C.F.R. § 76.1204(a)(1) (1998).

<sup>5</sup> In April 2003, the Commission extended the effective date of the integration ban until July 1, 2006. See Implementation of Section 304 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996: Commercial Availability of Navigation Devices, 18 FCC Rcd 7924, 7926, ¶ 4 (2003) (“Extension Order”). Then, in 2005, the Commission further extended that date until July 1, 2007. See Implementation of Section 304 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996: Commercial Availability of Navigation Devices, 20 FCC Rcd 6794, 6810, ¶ 31 (“2005 Deferral Order”).

<sup>7</sup> See Cablevision Systems Corporation’s Request for Waiver of Section 76.1204(a)(1) of the Commission’s Rules, 22 FCC Rcd 220, 226, ¶ 19 (2007) (citing the 2005 Deferral Order, 20 FCC Rcd at 6809, ¶ 30) (explaining why the Commission “require[d] MVPDs and consumer electronics manufacturers to rely upon identical separated security with regard to hardware-based conditional access solutions”).

<sup>8</sup> See S. REP. 104-230, at 181 (1996) (Conf. Rep.). See also Bellsouth Interactive Media Services, LLC, 19 FCC Rcd 15607, 15608, ¶ 2 (2004). As the Bureau noted, Congress characterized the transition to competition in navigation devices as an important goal, stating that “[c]ompetition in the manufacturing and distribution of consumer devices has always led to innovation, lower prices and higher quality.”

<sup>9</sup> Comcast Corp. v. FCC, 526 F.3d 763 (D.C. Cir. 2008); Charter Comm., Inc. v. FCC, 460 F.3d 31 (D.C. Cir. 2006); General Instrument Corp. v. FCC, 213 F.3d 724 (D.C. Cir. 2000). The Commission argued, and the D.C. Circuit agreed, that the integration ban was a reasonable means to meet Section 629’s directive. Charter Comm., Inc. v. FCC, 460 F.3d 31, 41 (D.C. Cir. 2006) (“this court is bound to defer to the FCC’s predictive judgment that, ‘[a]bsent common reliance on an identical security function, we do not foresee the market developing in a manner consistent with our statutory obligation.’”).

<sup>10</sup> For example, Section 629(c) provides that the Commission shall grant a waiver of its regulations implementing Section 629(a) upon an appropriate showing that such waiver is necessary to assist the development or introduction of new or improved services. 47 U.S.C § 549(c). Furthermore, petitioners who have shown good cause have received waivers of the integration ban pursuant to Sections 1.3 and 76.7 of the Commission’s rules. See Charter

III. DISCUSSION

4. Petitioner makes its request for waiver pursuant to the Financial Hardship Order<sup>11</sup> and Sections 1.3 and 76.7 of the Commission's rules.<sup>12</sup> In light of Petitioner's demonstrated financial hardship and consistent with the Financial Hardship Order, we conclude that a limited grant of its Waiver Request until July 1, 2010 is justified under Sections 1.3 and 76.7 of the Commission's rules. We therefore grant Petitioner a limited waiver of the integration ban for the Subject Boxes.<sup>13</sup>

5. On June 15, 2007, Allegiance filed a petition requesting a limited waiver of the integration ban for a period of two years.<sup>14</sup> On March 30, 2009, Allegiance updated its financial record and sought an extension of the waiver until July 1, 2010.<sup>15</sup> In light of the further deterioration of Allegiance's financial condition, we conclude that it has demonstrated that good cause exists to grant its request and that such a waiver would serve the public interest. Specifically, Allegiance has demonstrated that it has suffered accelerating net losses over the past three years.<sup>16</sup> Allegiance has demonstrated liquidity problems, and its investors have not seen a rate of return on their investments since before 2004.<sup>17</sup> Although owners' equity remained stable from 2004 to 2006, it declined sharply in 2007, despite capital infusions from its investors.<sup>18</sup> The company's borrowing has increased its debt, and the positive cash flows that are a product of that borrowing have not kept up with the company's negative cash flows from investment.<sup>19</sup> As Allegiance is in increasingly poor financial condition, good cause exists to grant its waiver request.

6. In 2006, we concluded that speculative claims that the integration ban may impose a financial burden on cable companies were not persuasive<sup>20</sup> but in 2007, we found that extraordinary financial hardship, when supported by specific and unambiguous documentation, can present good cause for a limited waiver of the integration ban.<sup>21</sup> With regard to Petitioner's request for a waiver, we find that Petitioner has effectively documented extraordinary financial hardship. While common reliance is integral to the development of the competitive navigation device market that Congress mandated through Section 629, we believe that in this specific case the Petitioner has shown good cause for waiver of the integration ban rule based on the costs associated with its imposition. Accordingly, we conclude that a limited waiver of the integration ban until July 1, 2010 would be in the public interest,<sup>22</sup> and that Petitioner has met the standard for waiver under Sections 1.3 and 76.7 of the Commission's rules.

IV. ORDERING CLAUSES

7. Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that, pursuant to Sections 1.3 and 76.7 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. §§ 1.3 & 76.7, the request for waiver of Section 76.1204(a)(1) of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 76.1204(a)(1), filed by Allegiance Communications, LLC, IS GRANTED until July 1, 2010 for the Motorola DCT-1000, Motorola DCT-2000, Motorola DCT-6208, Motorola DCT-6412, Motorola DCT-6416, and Motorola DSR-470, as conditioned above.

8. This action is taken pursuant to authority delegated by Section 0.283 of the Commission's rules, 47 C.F.R. § 0.283.

<sup>22</sup> While Allegiance has established that a limited waiver is appropriate at this time, the Commission adopted regulations to develop a competitive retail market for navigation devices more than a decade ago. While we recognize Petitioner's financial distress, we believe that we must begin to chart a course to bring it into compliance with the integration ban. Therefore, we will work with Petitioner, the Consumer Electronics Association, and set-top box manufacturers over the coming months to explore ways to bring Petitioner into compliance, consistent with its financial condition.
