II. BACKGROUND

3. Pursuant to sections 301 and 310(d) of the Act and sections 25.102, 25.119 and 25.121(e) of the Commission's rules, satellite communications providers must obtain a license from the FCC prior to providing such service, must renew such license within a period commencing no earlier than 90 days and ending no later than 30 days prior to the expiration of the existing license, and must obtain prior approval from the Commission before consummating a transaction that transfers control over a license.<sup>7</sup>

4. Shared Data provides satellite communications services and holds multiple Commission licenses to operate a Very Small Aperture Terminal ("VSAT") fixed satellite service. On November 11, 2008, in an application to transfer control, Shared Data reported to the International Bureau that it consummated an unauthorized transfer of control. Almost seven months later in a June 4, 2009 application for Special Temporary Authority ("STA") to continue operating its VSAT network facilities, Shared Data reported to the International Bureau that it engaged in other violations of the Commission's rules. In 2009, Shared Data discovered that one of its FCC licenses (Call Sign E881406) had expired on February 3, 2009, and not only had Shared Data neglected to seek a license renewal in accordance with the Commission's rules but it had also operated that license under an expired authorization for 180 days. The International Bureau granted the STA request effective August 4, 2009.<sup>8</sup>

5. The Enforcement Bureau issued a letter of inquiry ("LOI") to Shared Data directing the Company to submit a sworn written response to a series of questions relating to the Bureau's Investigation of the alleged violations. Shared Data admitted in the LOI response that it provided satellite communications services without authorization from the expiration of its license on February 3, 2009 until the grant of its STA application on August 4, 2009 and that it had transferred control of its licenses without prior approval. Shared Data requested that the Bureau consider resolving its Investigation with a Consent Decree.
