I. INTRODUCTION

T-Mobile License LLC (“T-Mobile”),¹ Cricket License Company, LLC (“Cricket”),² Cook Inlet/VS GSM VII PCS, LLC (“CIVS”),³ Savary Island License A, LLC (“Savary Island A”), and Savary Island License B, LLC (“Savary Island B”)⁴ (collectively, the “Applicants”) have filed a series of applications (“Applications”) pursuant to Section 310(d) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended,⁵ seeking approval to assign Personal Communications Service (“PCS”) and Advanced Wireless Service (“AWS-1”) licenses to effect proposed spectrum exchanges. T-Mobile, Cricket, and CIVS will receive entire and/or partitioned licenses pursuant to the proposed assignments; these Applicants, along with Savary Island A and Savary Island B, also will be assigning entire and/or partitioned licenses as a result of the proposed spectrum exchanges.

The Applicants state that the proposed assignments constitute license exchanges that will rationalize the spectrum to allow the Applicants to utilize spectrum more efficiently. The Applicants also state that a significant portion of the spectrum proposed to be assigned will occur as exchanges of spectrum within the same market and that these intra-market exchanges will allow efficiency benefits associated with larger blocks of contiguous spectrum and/or alignment of spectrum held in adjacent markets. The Applicants also assert that as a result of the proposed transactions, T-Mobile and Cricket will increase their presence in certain markets in which they already operate.

Preliminary review of the applications indicates that, post assignment, T-Mobile (including its attributable interest in CIVS) would hold a maximum of 80 megahertz of spectrum across any of the 55 Cellular Market Areas (“CMAs”) in which it is exchanging or acquiring spectrum in this transaction, and Cricket would hold a maximum of 35 megahertz of spectrum across any of the 18 CMAs in which it is exchanging or acquiring spectrum in this transaction.
