PETITION FOR ENFORCEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS BENCHMARK RATES ON THE U.S.-FIJI ROUTE

IB Docket No. 13-175

PLEADING CYCLE ESTABLISHED

Comments or Oppositions Due: August 2, 2013
Replies Due: August 12, 2013

The International Bureau seeks comment on a petition filed by AT&T Inc. (“AT&T”) on June 13, 2013, requesting that the Commission enforce its benchmark settlement rate of $0.19 per minute provided in the Commission’s *Benchmarks Order*¹ with respect to international telephone traffic terminated with Fiji International Telecommunications Limited (“Fintel”), the incumbent international carrier in Fiji.

The Commission found in the Benchmarks Order that above-cost accounting rates harm U.S. consumers and may result in market distortions. The Commission adopted the Benchmarks Order in 1997 to ensure that U.S. consumers pay reasonable rates for international communications service and to reduce the distortions that may result from above-cost accounting rates. The Commission established a set of benchmark settlement rates to cap the rates that U.S. carriers may pay foreign carriers to terminate international traffic originating in the United States. The Commission then concluded that the benchmark rates were necessary because the settlement rates U.S. carriers pay foreign carriers to terminate U.S.-originated traffic were in most cases substantially above the costs foreign carriers incur to terminate that traffic. A Commission concern was that above-cost settlement rates contribute to the inflated prices paid by U.S. consumers for international services.² The benchmark settlement rates were established primarily based upon countries’ income per capita levels. For carriers in countries classified as lower middle income countries, which includes Fiji, the Benchmarks Order requires a settlement rate that does not exceed $0.19 per minute for traffic terminated after January 1, 2001. Settlement rates with Fiji complied with benchmarks prior to the time it raised rates on November 17, 2011.

In its petition, AT&T states that, beginning in 2011, Fintel began to charge U.S. carriers above benchmark settlement rates. It notes that in the years prior to 2011, average U.S.-Fiji termination rates were in the range of $0.16-$0.18 per minute. AT&T states that, in 2010, the Fiji Commerce Commission required all international traffic terminated in Fiji to pay a minimum rate of approximately $0.165 per minute. Prior to November 17, 2011, Fintel terminated AT&T's U.S.-Fiji traffic for $0.165 per minute. On November 7, 2011, the Fiji Commerce Commission increased the minimum termination rate for inbound international traffic from $0.165 to $0.22 per minute. On November 8, 2011, Fintel notified AT&T that it would raise termination rates for U.S.-Fiji traffic to $0.22 per minute on November 17, 2011.

AT&T further states that it has been attempting, but has been unable, to negotiate settlement rates with Fintel that would continue to comply with the Benchmarks Order. AT&T maintains that Fintel's action violates the Commission's benchmarks policies and requests that the Commission enforce the Benchmarks Order on the U.S.-Fiji route by requiring all U.S. carriers to pay Fintel rates for U.S.-Fiji traffic that do not exceed the $0.19 per minute benchmark.
