ORDER

Adopted: March 29, 2016

Released: March 29, 2016

By the Chief, Enforcement Bureau:

1. The Enforcement Bureau (Bureau) of the Federal Communications Commission has entered into a Consent Decree to resolve its investigation into The Supply Room, Inc.'s (The Supply Room) operation of a cellular phone jamming device in its Oxford, Alabama warehouse in 2013. Signal jamming devices overpower, jam, or interfere with authorized wireless communications. In order to protect the public and preserve unfettered access to emergency and other communications services, the Communications Act and Commission regulations broadly prohibit the importation, use, marketing, manufacture, and sale of jamming devices.

2. In its response to the Commission's Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture (NAL),1 The Supply Room provided the Bureau with a sworn affidavit from the company's Information Technology Manager providing detailed information about its use of the jamming device at issue.2 Specifically, The Supply Room admitted to purchasing five jammers and mounting four of them for operation in the company's warehouse, but explained that the jammers were used for seven months (not two years, as stated in the NAL) and that, at the time of the FCC's agent's inspection in April 2012, only one of the jammers was in use.3 The Supply Room immediately surrendered the devices and is a small company that had not previously violated any communications laws. To settle this matter, The Supply Room admits that it violated the laws and regulations that prohibit the use of signal jamming devices, will comply with these rules in the future, and will pay $20,500 in civil penalties.

3. After reviewing the terms of the Consent Decree and evaluating the facts before us, we find that the public interest would be served by adopting the Consent Decree and resolving the NAL against The Supply Room regarding its use of a signal jamming device as prohibited by the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, (Act)4 and the Commission's rules (Rules).5

5 47 C.F.R. § 2.805, 15.1(c).

4. In the absence of material new evidence relating to this matter, we do not set for hearing the question of The Supply Room's basic qualifications to hold or obtain any Commission license or authorization.⁶

5. Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that, pursuant to Sections 4(i), and 503(b) of the Act⁷ and the authority delegated by Sections 0.111 and 0.311 of the Rules,⁸ the attached Consent Decree IS ADOPTED and its terms incorporated by reference.

6. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-captioned matter IS TERMINATED and the NAL IS CANCELED.

7. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order and Consent Decree shall be sent by first class mail and certified mail, return receipt requested, to Mr. Arthur U. Hathorn, Chief Executive Officer, The Supply Room, Inc., 230 Supply Room Road, Oxford, Alabama 36203, and its counsel, Tony Mastando, Esq., Mastando & Artrip, LLC, 301 Washington St., NW #302, Huntsville, Alabama 35801.

II. BACKGROUND

3. Section 301 of the Act prohibits the use or operation of “any apparatus for the transmission of energy or communications or signals by radio” within the United States unless such use is licensed or authorized.¹³ Section 302(b) of the Act provides that “[n]o person shall manufacture, import, sell offer for sale, or ship devices or home electronic equipment and systems, or use devices, which fail comply with regulations promulgated pursuant to this section.”¹⁴ Section 333 of the Act states that “[n]o person shall willfully or maliciously interfere with or cause interference to any radio communications of any station licensed or authorized by or under this chapter or operated by the United States government.”¹⁵

4. In response to an anonymous complaint, a Commission agent investigated and determined that one or more signal jamming devices was in use at The Supply Room’s property in Oxford, Alabama. On April 6, 2012, the agent interviewed the general manager of The Supply Room, who confirmed that The Supply Room had purchased five cellular jamming devices online and operated four jamming devices in its warehouse for over two years. The general manager also confirmed that The Supply Room utilized the jamming devices to prevent its employees from using their cellular phones while working. The general manager then showed the agent where the jamming devices were installed and surrendered them, along with a spare backup jamming device. After they were removed, the agent confirmed that the unauthorized signals in the cellular bands had ceased.

5. The Supply Room responded to the NAL on May 22, 2014, with a sworn affidavit from its Information Technology Manager, Mr. Tim Barton.¹⁶ In it, Mr. Barton admitted to purchasing five jammers and mounting four of the jammers for operation in the company’s warehouse, but explained that the jammers were used for a period of seven months (not two years) and that, at the time of the FCC’s agent’s inspection in April 2012, only one of the jammers was in use.¹⁷ Mr. Barton further attested that when the FCC’s field agent informed The Supply Room that use of jammers was illegal, it promptly ceased using the one jammer, took down the four mounted jammers, and turned all five jammers over to the FCC agents. The Supply Room is a small company that had not previously violated Communications Laws. Subsequently, The Bureau and The Supply Room engaged in settlement negotiations. The Bureau and The Supply Room agree to the following terms and conditions of settlement and hereby enter into this Consent Decree as provided herein.
