COMMISSION ANNOUNCES RECEIPT OF SUPPLEMENTAL ANALYSIS FROM T-MOBILE; ESTABLISHES COMMENT DEADLINE

WT Docket No. 18-197

Comments Due: December 4, 2018

Pending before the Commission are applications filed by T-Mobile US, Inc. (T-Mobile), and Sprint Corporation (Sprint, and together with T-Mobile, the Applicants) seeking Commission consent to the transfer of control of licenses and authorizations from Sprint to T-Mobile. On July 18, 2018, the Commission accepted the applications for filing and established a pleading cycle for the proposed transaction.¹ Following the submission of new economic and engineering modeling by the Applicants in September 2018, the Commission paused its informal 180-day clock² and extended the deadline for replies to October 31, 2018.³

On November 6, 2018, the Applicants filed a new econometric study with the Commission. The new study describes itself as a “merger simulation offer[ing] an economically coherent framework, grounded in detailed industry data, for understanding the competitive significance of the proposed merger.”⁴ The analysis represents a substantial body of new material on economic issues central to the review of the proposed transaction. It relies on a newly submitted data set and new methodologies to reach conclusions about the specific effects of the transaction not previously in the record.

When applicants have made substantial new submissions in support of their transactions after their initial applications, the Commission has typically paused its 180-day informal time clock to allow for staff and third-party review and has sought additional comment from the public.⁵ Doing so ensures that the public interest in a speedy review is balanced with the public interest in careful analysis and the need for third parties to comment on material information submitted by the applicants.

Interested parties must file comments by no later than December 4, 2018. All filings should refer to WT Docket No. 18-197. Absent further significant new record submissions by the Applicants, the informal 180-day clock will resume on December 4, 2018, at day 55.
