WIRELESS TELECOMMUNICATIONS BUREAU SEEKS COMMENT ON REQUEST BY GARMIN INTERNATIONAL, INC., FOR DECLARATORY RULING OR WAIVER FOR COMBINED PART 95/PART 25 DEVICE

WT Docket No. 20-115

Comment Date: May 28, 2020

Reply Date: June 13, 2020

On April 24, 2020, Garmin International, Inc. (Garmin) filed a Request for Declaratory Ruling or, in the Alternative, Waiver of Section 95.2761(c) of the Commission's Rules.<sup>1</sup> Garmin seeks to obtain equipment certification for a hand-held unit that combines a low-power, terrestrial Part 95, subpart J, Multi-Use Radio Service (MURS) transmitter and an emergency satellite communications module in the same device.<sup>2</sup> Section 95.2761(c) precludes combination transmitting equipment, i.e., end products capable of operating under other licensed or licensed-by-rule radio services. Specifically, "[a] grant of equipment certification will not be issued for MURS transmitters capable of operating under both this subpart (MURS) and under any other subparts of this chapter (except part 15)."<sup>3</sup>

The proposed product, "a single unit capable of being held in a person's hand," will include two transmitters: a low-power, terrestrial Part 95 MURS transmitter to be used for two-way, short distance data terrestrial communication services and a previously certified Part 25 module that will allow SOS emergency communications via the Iridium satellite system under a blanket license held by Iridium, provided the end user subscribes to the Iridium service.<sup>4</sup>

Garmin argues that the purpose of the original equipment authorization restriction was "to prevent consumer confusion with other terrestrial services that either had different licensing regimes or were for different types of communications[.]" and that it is inapposite in this case.<sup>5</sup> Garmin further argues that a waiver would serve the public interest because “the certified Part 25 module in the MURS unit would allow emergency communications to the outside world at the push of a button.”<sup>6</sup>

We seek comment on the waiver request.
