The Wireline Competition Bureau (WCB or Bureau) seeks comment on the petition of R.M. Greene, Inc. aka Beam (Beam) for designation as an Eligible Telecommunications Carrier (ETC).1 Beam is seeking designation for the purpose of receiving Rural Digital Opportunity Fund (RDOF) support associated with certain census blocks (Assigned Blocks) in Alabama.2 This support was originally part of a larger RDOF award to Point Broadband Fiber Holding, LLC (Point) which WCB authorized Point to receive in exchange for a commitment to meeting a defined deployment obligation and specific public interest obligations.3 Beam and Point have sought WCB’s approval of a Section 214 license transfer application (214 Transfer Application) to assign part of this support and related facilities for the Assigned Census Blocks in addition to all rights, obligations, and conditions associated with the receipt of the support, which remains pending.4 Accordingly, Beam’s ETC designation for the purpose of receiving RDOF support will be conditioned upon approval of the 214 Transfer Application.

ETC designation is a prerequisite to receiving universal service support available through the high-cost and Lifeline programs.5 To receive an ETC designation, a petitioner must, in addition to meeting high-cost program requirements and other related obligations as specified below, offer the Lifeline discount on all qualifying services in areas where it receives high-cost support, deploy a network

2 As stated in its 214 Transfer Application, Beam seeks receipt of all future RDOF support for the Assigned Census Blocks that it estimates at $892,797.21 annually in exchange for service to 3,420 locations in 21 Census Block Groups in Alabama. Requirements for FCC ETC Designation

Section 254(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the Act), provides that “only an eligible telecommunications carrier designated under section 214(e) shall be eligible to receive specific federal universal service support.”\(^7\) Congress gives primary authority for ETC designations to state commissions.\(^8\) The Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) has authority only when “a common carrier [is] providing telephone exchange service and exchange access that is not subject to the jurisdiction of a State commission.”\(^9\) The petitioner for ETC designation must demonstrate that the FCC has jurisdiction and may do so by submitting an “affirmative statement from the state commission or a court of competent jurisdiction that the carrier is not subject to the state commission’s jurisdiction.”\(^10\) The Commission has delegated authority to the Bureau to consider appropriate ETC designation requests.\(^11\)

A petition for ETC designation by the FCC must include: (1) a certification that the petitioner offers or intends to offer all services designated for support by the Commission pursuant to section 254(c) of the Act; (2) a certification that the petitioner offers or intends to offer the supported services either using its own facilities or a combination of its own facilities and resale of another carrier’s services;\(^12\) (3) a description of how the petitioner advertises the availability of the supported services and the charges therefor using media of general distribution;\(^13\) (4) a detailed description of the geographic service area for which the petitioner requests to be designated as an ETC;\(^14\) and (5) a certification that neither the petitioner, nor any party to the application, is subject to a denial of federal benefits pursuant to the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988.\(^15\)

In addition, a petitioner must demonstrate its ability to meet certain service standards. A petitioner seeking an ETC designation for purposes of becoming eligible to receive RDOF support must: (1) certify that it will comply with the service requirements applicable to the support that it receives; (2) demonstrate its ability to remain functional in emergency situations; and (3) demonstrate its ability to satisfy applicable consumer protection and service quality standards.\(^16\) Further, prior to designating a
