that it complies with the contribution, regulatory fee, and 911 obligations. In addition, ActionVox certifies that it has the financial, managerial, and technical expertise to provide reliable service. ActionVox further certifies that none of its key management and technical personnel are being or have been investigated by the Federal Communications Commission, or any law enforcement or regulatory agency, for failure to comply with any law, rule, or order.

ActionVox also certifies that it will not use the numbers obtained pursuant to the authorization for illegal robocalling, illegal spoofing, or otherwise fraudulent purposes. ActionVox certifies that it has fully complied with all applicable STIR/SHAKEN caller ID authentication and robocall mitigation program requirements. ActionVox certifies that it complies with the Commission's Access Stimulation rules and asserts it is compliant with FCC Form 499 and FCC Form 477 filing requirements. ActionVox makes the necessary ownership disclosures and certifications as required under 47 CFR §§ 63.18(h) and (i). Finally, ActionVox makes a declaration under penalty of perjury that all statements in the application and any appendices are true and accurate.

Pursuant to 47 CFR § 52.15(g)(3)(v)(E), the Bureau finds that ActionVox's application for authorization for direct access to telephone numbers requires further analysis to determine whether granting the Application will serve the public interest, and hereby notifies ActionVox that the Application is being accepted on a non-streamlined basis and will not be granted automatically.⁴

The Bureau makes this finding based on evidence suggesting that ActionVox has, or has had, ties to companies that have been linked by the Commission to illegal robocalling campaigns.⁵ In particular, ActionVox's public filings in Nevada show that in 2023, its president was Aashay Khandelwal, who was also the owner of One Owl Telecom Inc.,⁶ a company subject to an Initial Determination Order in 2023 finding that it had originated and transmitted apparently illegal traffic, including scam calls.⁷ The Initial Determination Order also found that One Owl was itself linked to other bad actors that the Commission had previously shut down for originating illegal traffic, and that the company had been created to "deflect the FCC's scrutiny."⁸ In addition, Allan Noorda, identified as the "President/Owner" of ActionVox in its most recent February 2026 Robocall Mitigation Plan, was hired as a consultant to One Owl in August 2023.⁹ Given ActionVox's links to companies that have apparently engaged in illegal robocalling and deceptive business practices, the Bureau finds that greater scrutiny of ActionVox's application is warranted.

⁴ See 47 CFR § 52.15(g)(3)(v) (providing that an application may receive non-streamlined processing if, (1) an applicant fails to respond promptly to Commission inquiries; (2) an application is associated with a non-routine request for waiver of the Commission's rules; (3) an applicant would, on its face, violate a Commission rule; (4) timely filed comments on the application raise public interest concerns that require further Commission review; or (5) the Bureau determines that the application requires further analysis to determine whether granting the application serves the public interest); see also 47 CFR § 52.15(g)(3)(vii)(D).
