FCC ANNOUNCES NEW DATE FOR RURAL WIRELESS ISP SHOWCASE AND WORKSHOP TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 4, 2003

Washington D.C. – The Federal Communications Commission has rescheduled its Rural Wireless Internet Service Provider (ISP) Showcase and Workshop to be held at the Commission on November 4, 2003, beginning at 9:30 a.m. This event is part of ongoing Commission efforts intended to facilitate the deployment of broadband services to rural America. The event agenda and further details are attached. This event was rescheduled from September 18th due to Hurricane Isabel.

Background on Wireless ISPs

Wireless ISPs have been sprouting up across rural America providing high-speed Internet access using both licensed and unlicensed spectrum. Deploying networks which use grain silos, water towers, and pumping stations as antenna sites, rural WISPs are beginning to bring broadband service to previously unserved areas and to provide new competition in areas that already have broadband access.

The Rural WISP Showcase will feature “virtual tours” of several WISPs, discussions of technology, implementation issues, best practices, and lessons learned. In addition, it will provide an opportunity for the Commission to learn what, if any, regulatory barriers stand in the way of rural WISP deployment. Presenters will be service providers who are offering high-speed Internet service to their rural customers. The Showcase will emphasize real world questions and practical solutions with the goal of encouraging and enabling new, innovative, and economic approaches to providing rural broadband.

Information concerning the Showcase, the including agenda, copies of presentations, and bios of the speakers, will be available at the Showcase webpage <http://www.fcc.gov/osp/rural-wisp.html>.
