FCC TO PARTICIPATE IN 2006 NATIONAL CONSUMER PROTECTION WEEK – FEBRUARY 5-11

Special FCC Web Page Emphasizes National Theme: Consumer Protection - It's the Name of the Game

Washington, DC -- President Bush has declared February 5-11 “National Consumer Protection Week (NCPW)” for 2006. This year’s theme, “Consumer Protection: It’s the Name of the Game,” is dedicated to educating consumers about unfair or deceptive business practices that affect their lives daily.

In keeping with this year’s theme, the FCC has established a NCPW Web site designed to educate, as well as entertain, consumers. The Web site [\[http://www.fcc.gov/cgb/ncpw06.html\]](http://www.fcc.gov/cgb/ncpw06.html) contains useful fact sheets and alerts for consumers of various communications-related products and services as well as telecommunications-related games.

In addition to the Web site, FCC staff will be participating with staff of other federal agencies and organizations in an Information Fair on February 10, from 9 to 11:30 AM at the Russell Senate Office Building, Room 385. This event is open to the public.

More information on the government-wide activities for NCPW is available, in both English and Spanish, at: www.consumer.gov/ncpw.
