FCC 'MOST IMPROVED' FEDERAL AGENCY IN GOVERNMENT SURVEY

Washington, D.C. -- The Federal Communications Commission is the "most improved" agency across the entire federal government according to the 2010 OPM Viewpoint Employee Satisfaction Survey released today by the Office of Management and Budget.

FCC Chairman Julius Genachowski issued the following statement:

"I am delighted that the FCC has been recognized as the 'most improved' federal agency. The survey results reflect the hard work being done throughout the agency to make the FCC a model of excellence in government.

"The FCC's reform agenda, which builds on the impressive strides made by Commissioner Copps as acting chairman, includes creating new opportunities for employees to provide feedback; improving employee communication through technology and new media; and focusing on leadership development and opportunities for employees. I applaud the work of the FCC management and staff and look forward to more great things to come."
