

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
Washington, D.C.

36044

September 7, 1939.

The Federal Communications Commission in executive session on September 6, 1939, discussed the problem of radiobroadcasting in this country in its relation to the European situation.

The Commission appointed a committee of three members to keep in close contact with the problem and to study its various phases. The Committee is composed of James Lawrence Fly, Chairman, and Commissioners Thad H. Brown and T. A. M. Craven.
