Statement from Acting Chairwoman Mignon Clyburn On Special Access Data Collection Order

“Special access services underpin millions of transactions for consumers every day at places like the gas pump or ATM machine while easing the burden on our wireless networks by transporting mobile calls and data. Because these services are such a critical input in our economy, I am pleased that the Wireline Competition Bureau’s data collection clarification order and instructions mark an important step forward in our data-driven examination of the marketplace for these services. This Order will give the Commission the detailed and comprehensive data we need to conduct a robust analysis of the entire special access market.”
