FCC CHAIRMAN WHEELER TO HONOR INNOVATORS IN ACCESSIBILITY COMMUNICATIONS TECHNOLOGY WITH ANNUAL AWARDS

Award-Winning Technology to Be Displayed at M-Enabling Summit

Washington, D.C. – FCC Chairman Tom Wheeler has selected the winners of the third annual Awards for Advancement in Accessibility (Chairman's AAA), which honor technologists who develop innovative communications products for people with disabilities. The Chairman will present the awards at a ceremony on Monday, June 9, 2014 at 5:15 p.m. at the M-Enabling Summit at the Renaissance Arlington Capital View Hotel in Arlington, Va. The award-winning technology will be displayed at a reception immediately following the ceremony.

The Chairman's AAA, a project of the FCC's Accessibility and Innovation Initiative (A&I Initiative), recognizes outstanding private and public sector ventures in communications technology accessibility and innovation. The Chairman's AAA is part of the A&I Initiative's goal to facilitate ongoing exchanges among industry, assistive technology companies, app developers, government representatives and consumers to share best practices and solutions for accessible communications technologies.

Winners have been chosen for seven categories: Advanced Communication Services (ACS), Employment Opportunities, Closed Captions, Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities, Mobile Web Browsers, Social Media and Video Description.

The awards ceremony is free and open to the public. Preregistration is required to attend. To preregister, send an e-mail to ChairmansAAA@fcc.gov and sign up for expo-only access at the M-Enabling summit at www.m-enabling.com/conreg.html.
