STATEMENT OF FCC
COMMISSIONERS MIKE O’RIELLY AND JESSICA ROSENWORCEL
ON ADVANCING THE USE OF E-LABELING

Washington, D.C. – Commissioners Mike O’Rielly and Jessica Rosenworcel issued the following statement today:

“We commend Senators Jay Rockefeller (D-WV) and Deb Fischer (R-NE) for their bipartisan efforts to advance the use of e-labeling. Modernizing the display of FCC device certification has real benefits. For starters, more devices and new technologies can be designed with innovation in mind, rather than regulatory labeling requirements. The FCC also has been doing its part. Thanks to Chairman Wheeler and the talented staff of our Office of Engineering and Technology, the Commission is looking at ways to update our e-labeling policies. We are optimistic that by working together we can provide innovators more flexibility and speed the delivery of new devices in the marketplace.”
