Re: Emergency Request for Special Temporary Authority

Dear Mr. Stockdale:

T-Mobile USA, Inc. (“T-Mobile”),^{1/} on behalf of its subsidiary, T-Mobile License, LLC and pursuant to Section 1.931 of the Commission’s rules and the guidance recently released by the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau (“Bureau”),^{2/} hereby requests emergency special temporary authority (“STA”) to use spectrum in the 600 MHz band for which it is not licensed. T-Mobile will use this spectrum to provide enhanced wireless broadband services for a period of sixty (60) days from Commission action to help keep Americans connected during the ongoing novel coronavirus pandemic. T-Mobile seeks Commission action as part of its Keep Americans Connected Pledge to help citizens overcome current challenges that have required them to remain socially distant.^{3/}

STA is in the Public Interest

With each passing day, more Americans are being separated from each other as the United States continues to fight against the novel coronavirus. Americans have been directed to work from home and take classes remotely.^{4/} T-Mobile can help. As the Commission is aware, T-Mobile

^{1/} T-Mobile USA, Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of T-Mobile US, Inc., a publicly-traded company.

^{2/} See 47 C.F.R. § 1.931(a)(2)(iv); Wireless Telecommunications Bureau Provides Guidance on Requesting Special Temporary Authority and Waivers in Response to COVID-19, Public Notice, DA 20-365 (rel. Apr. 1, 2020) (“STA and Waiver Guidance”).

has aggressively built out the 600 MHz spectrum for which it is authorized, delivering both Fourth Generation (“4G”) LTE and Fifth Generation (“5G”) wireless service nationwide.^{5/} T-Mobile can even better meet the unprecedented need for our country to be connected by having access to additional 600 MHz spectrum – deploying additional capacity in areas where it has already provided, and where it soon expects to provide, service, including in rural areas. More spectrum capacity will enable Americans to even more effectively telework, engage in distance learning (including taking tests and submitting homework, projects, and other coursework), obtain medical advice through telehealth, and simply remain connected to loved ones who may be quarantined, through applications like FaceTime. And, more capacity on T-Mobile’s network will ensure that first responders and others can communicate in the event of an escalating crisis.

Indeed, that is why the Commission recently provided relief to T-Mobile and other providers to enhance network capacity.^{6/} Accordingly, and consistent with its previous requests, T-Mobile requests authority, for a period of sixty (60) days from Commission action, to use the spectrum associated with call sign WQZM820 (600 MHz A Block covering PEA384 – Manchester, IA), which is currently licensed to NEIT Services, LLC (“NEIT”). NEIT has consented to T-Mobile’s use of the spectrum.^{7/} NEIT is not currently using the licensed spectrum and has agreed to support T-Mobile’s temporary use of it in support of the Keep Americans Connected Pledge.

^{7/} While NEIT and T-Mobile may have otherwise sought to permit T-Mobile’s use of the spectrum through the usual Commission leasing process, resulting in T-Mobile’s expeditious use of the spectrum, T-Mobile believes that, because of the unique nature of the 600 MHz spectrum, waiver of the rules may be required, defeating the Commission’s streamlined leasing procedures. (In particular, in order to lease the 600 MHz spectrum, T-Mobile would be required to conduct analyses under Sections 20.22(c)(2) and (3). Grant of this STA request will allow T-Mobile to use the spectrum more quickly by alleviating the need for this analysis.)

Requested Rule Waivers

T-Mobile recognizes that the Commission's rules generally require that STA requests be submitted electronically on FCC Form 601.^{8/} Accordingly, it hereby requests waiver of that rule. Waiver is justified because, as the Commission acknowledges, the Universal Licensing System is not optimized to allow applicants to seek permission to use 600 MHz spectrum for which an applicant is not authorized, on a temporary basis.^{9/} While T-Mobile could potentially submit a request using FCC Form 601 in a paper format, doing so would elevate form over substance and potentially delay Commission action on this request.^{10/} Seeking STA through this letter will likely permit the Commission to act more quickly, allowing T-Mobile to help bridge the connectivity gap sooner, and, as indicated above, is consistent with the recent guidance provided by the Wireless Bureau.
