

Federal Communications Commission

Before the
Federal Communications Commission
Washington, D.C. 20554

In the Matter of) Wireless E911 Location Accuracy Requirements) PS Docket No. 07-114

ERRATUM

Released: August 28, 2020

By the Chief, Public Safety and Homeland Security Bureau, and the Managing Director:

On July 17, 2020, the Commission released the Sixth Report and Order and Order on Reconsideration (Sixth R&O), FCC 20-98, in the above captioned proceeding. This Erratum amends Appendix A of the Sixth R&O as indicated below:

- 1. The heading to Section 9.10 is revised to read as:
'§ 9.10 911 Service.'
2. In paragraph (i)(2)(ii)(M), under Section 9.10, the sub-heading is removed as follows:
'(M) A z-axis capable device is one that can measure and report vertical location without a hardware upgrade. For z-axis location solutions that rely on barometric pressure sensor information, only devices that have such sensors installed shall be considered z-axis capable. In the case of location solutions that do not require barometric pressure sensor information, both devices with and without barometric sensors shall be considered z-axis capable, provided that they are software upgradable.'
3. In paragraph (i)(2)(ii)(4), under Section 9.10, the introductory text is corrected to read as follows:
'(4) * * *
(iv) Dispatchable location use certification. Prior to use of dispatchable location information to meet the Commission's 911 horizontal and indoor location accuracy requirements in paragraphs (i)(2)(i) and (ii) of this section, CMRS providers must certify that neither they nor any third party they rely on to obtain dispatchable location information will use dispatchable location information or associated data for any non-911 purpose, except with prior express consent or as otherwise required by law. The certification must state that CMRS providers and any third party they rely on to obtain dispatchable location information will implement measures sufficient to safeguard the privacy and security of dispatchable location information.'
4. Paragraph (s) is corrected to read as follows:
'(s) Compliance date(s). Paragraphs (i)(2)(ii)(C) and (D), (i)(4)(iv) and (v), (j)(4), (k), and (q)(10)(v) of this section contain information-collection and recordkeeping requirements. Compliance with paragraphs (i)(2)(ii)(C) and (D), (i)(4)(iv) and (v), (j)(4), (k) and (q)(10)(v) will not be required until after approval by the Office of Management and Budget. The Commission will publish a document in the FEDERAL REGISTER announcing compliance dates with those paragraphs and revising this paragraph (s) accordingly.”

Federal Communications Commission

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Lisa M. Fowlkes
Chief, Public Safety and Homeland Security Bureau

Mark Stephens
Managing Director