By the Commission:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. On March 11, 2003, the Do-Not-Call Implementation Act<sup>1</sup> (Do-Not-Call Act) was signed into law requiring the Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) to issue a final rule in the above-captioned proceeding within 180 days of March 11, 2003 and to consult and coordinate with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to maximize consistency with the rule promulgated by the FTC in 2002.<sup>2</sup> The Do-Not-Call Act also requires the Commission to issue reports to Congress within 45 days after the promulgation of final rules in this proceeding, and annually thereafter. In this Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (Further Notice), we seek comment on these requirements.

II. BACKGROUND

2. On December 20, 1991, Congress enacted the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991 (TCPA)<sup>3</sup> in an effort to address a growing number of telephone marketing calls and certain telemarketing practices thought to be an invasion of consumer privacy and even a risk to public safety.<sup>4</sup> The statute restricts the use of automatic telephone dialing systems, artificial and prerecorded messages, and telephone facsimile machines to send unsolicited advertisements. The TCPA specifically authorizes the Commission to “require the establishment and operation of a single national database to compile a list of telephone numbers of residential subscribers who object to receiving telephone solicitations.”<sup>5</sup> In 1992, the Commission adopted rules implementing the TCPA but declined to create a national database of telephone subscribers who do not wish to receive calls from telemarketers.<sup>6</sup> The Commission opted instead to implement an alternative scheme — one involving company-specific do-not-call lists. In 1995 and 1997, the Commission released orders addressing petitions for reconsideration of the TCPA Order.<sup>7</sup>

3. On September 18, 2002, the Commission released a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) and Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O)<sup>8</sup> seeking comment on whether the Commission’s rules need to be revised in order to carry out more effectively Congress’s directives in the TCPA. Specifically, we sought comment on whether to revise or clarify our rules governing unwanted telephone solicitations<sup>9</sup> and the use of automatic telephone dialing systems,<sup>10</sup> prerecorded or artificial voice messages,<sup>11</sup> and telephone facsimile machines.<sup>12</sup> We also sought comment on the effectiveness of company-specific do-not-call lists.<sup>13</sup> In addition, we sought comment on whether to revisit the option of establishing a national do-not-call list<sup>14</sup> and, if so, how such action might be taken in conjunction with the FTC’s proposal to adopt a national do-not-call list and with various state do-not-call lists.<sup>15</sup> In considering ways in which we might improve our TCPA rules, our goal is to enhance consumer privacy protections while avoiding imposing unnecessary burdens on the telemarketing industry, consumers, and regulators. Lastly, we sought comment on the effect proposed policies and rules would have on small business entities, including inter alia those who engage in telemarketing activities and those who rely on telemarketing as a method to solicit new business.<sup>16</sup>

4. On December 18, 2002, the FTC released an order establishing a national do-not-

III. DISCUSSION

5. In the Do-Not-Call Act, Congress requires this Commission to issue final rules in the above-captioned proceeding by September 7, 2003. The Do-Not-Call Act provides that the FCC shall consult and coordinate with the FTC to maximize consistency with the rule promulgated by the FTC.<sup>20</sup> Congress also requires the Commission to transmit a report on regulatory coordination to the House Committee on Energy and Commerce and the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.<sup>21</sup> The Commission is required to provide:

- (1) An analysis of the telemarketing rules promulgated by both the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission;
- (2) An analysis of any inconsistencies between the rules promulgated by each Commission and the effect of any such inconsistencies on consumers, and persons paying for access to the registry; and
- (3) Proposals to remedy any such inconsistencies.<sup>22</sup>

The Do-Not-Call Act also requires the Commission to file an annual report to the House Committee on Energy and Commerce and the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, which includes:

- (1) An analysis of the effectiveness of the "do-not-call" registry as a national registry;
- (2) The number of consumers who have placed their telephone numbers on the registry;
- (3) The number of persons paying fees for access to the registry and the amount of such fees;
- (4) An analysis of the progress of coordinating the operation and enforcement of the “do-not-call” registry with similar registries established and maintained by the various States;

- (5) An analysis of the progress of coordinating the operation of the “do-not-call” registry with the enforcement activities of the Commission pursuant to the TCPA; and
- (6) A review of the enforcement proceedings by the Commission under the TCPA.<sup>23</sup>

6. As stated above, the Do-Not-Call Act requires the FCC, in the course of the above-captioned proceeding, to “maximize consistency” with FTC’s recent amendments to its Telemarketing Sales Rule.<sup>24</sup> We seek comment on how the FCC can maximize consistency with the FTC’s rule. We encourage commenters to review the rule promulgated by the FTC and to comment on how the FCC should consider amending its rules, given the new statutory directive. We seek comment on how the goals and principles identified in the Do-Not-Call Act should affect our implementation of the Act and how to harmonize the requirements of the Do-Not-Call Act with our statutory mandate in the TCPA. We also seek comment on how the FCC can best fulfill the reporting requirements contained in the statute. Parties are advised not to reiterate comments previously filed in this proceeding because any previously filed comments, to the extent they are relevant to adopting rules that maximize consistency with the FTC’s rules, will be duly considered. We note that nothing in this Further Notice modifies the Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis (IRFA) we published with the NPRM.<sup>25</sup> However, we welcome any additional comments on that IRFA that may arise because of this Further Notice.
